

Atchison

Solutions

Illuminating
the way forward

Who Is Atchison?

Atchison is an asset consultant and investment management firm.

We provide expertise to financial advisers, superannuation funds, charities and foundations.

This expertise comes in many ways including:

- ▲ Taking part in investment committees.
 - ▲ Researching potential investment solutions.
 - ▲ Assisting to build and stress test client portfolios, including managed accounts.
 - ▲ Ensuring our clients meet growing regulator needs.

Founded in 2001 by Ken Atchison, we are one of the few truly independent consultants in Australia, undertaking both research and funds management work on a fee-for-service basis.

What Does Atchison Do?

Generalisation is the roadblock to success. Rather than seeking to be everything to everyone, we do three things:

- ▲ Solutions
- ▲ Governance
- ▲ Consulting

Solutions

Atchison builds product solutions for financial advisers and their clients to support the outsourcing of investment execution.

This is via three distinct managed account offerings: off-the-shelf Separately Managed Accounts (SMA's), individual asset classes and tailored SMA's - all of which can be white labelled, meaning your branding and your logo.

Governance

With a grounding in regulatory reporting, Atchison acts as a buffer against the many risks of investing, providing approved product list (APL) monitoring to advice firms and APRA-regulated super funds, along with portfolio stress testing and analysis.

Consulting

Our consulting work includes chairing and supporting investment committees, managed fund research, investment policy reviews and construction along with manager searches and performance reviews.

Our goal is to assist financial advisers to build better portfolios and stronger businesses.

Our Core Solutions

Working with several financial advisory firms has guided the services we are able to offer. Having seen first-hand the challenges of shifting clients into a separately managed account, we offer both risk profile and asset class level solutions to assist in minimising friction.

Only looking for alternative capabilities?

You can invest directly via your platform.

Prefer a whole portfolio solution?

We can build both a passive and blended portfolio for you to choose from.

Have additional unique requirements?

Let's build it together.

The foundation of our philosophy is the knowledge that asset class decisions drive the majority of returns; Consequently our managed accounts are split into:

- ▲ Fixed income – floating
- ▲ Fixed income – duration
- ▲ Australian shares
- ▲ International shares
- ▲ Real assets – property & infrastructure
- ▲ Alternatives

Across each of these we prioritise and begin with passive investment strategies to achieve long-term results, reducing costs and minimising tax implications.

We then utilise active management when the opportunities for excess returns are clear.

How We Invest

With a history grounded in managing risk for sophisticated investors, institutions and financial advisers, our investment philosophy is shaped by consistency and deep analysis.

We follow a data-driven approach, that seeks to remove emotional and inherent biases from decision making and ensures sound, informed decisions are made with the benefit of back-testing and automation.

Our core investment beliefs or Guiding Lights are:

- ▲ Always be compensated for taking risk
- ▲ Market returns (beta) is for free
- ▲ Asset allocation drives long-term returns
- ▲ Active management can smooth the journey
- ▲ Rebalance regular, but remove emotion
- ▲ Liquidity is your friend
- ▲ Trust in mean reversion
- ▲ Costs matter
- ▲ Always have an exit strategy

Our guiding lights reflect a nuanced approach to asset management that balances steady income generation with strategic growth, while safeguarding against significant losses during market downturns.

How We Think Differently

We don't shirk responsibility or outsource our roles to external providers, we manage our own datasets, allowing for complete customisation and transparency.

Distinct to the growing cohort of consultants with a grounding in funds management, our history is centred on supporting our clients and their clients, i.e. the end investor.

At the core of our investment process is ensuring we minimise the level of uncompensated risks in portfolios, warranting every risk is being rewarded.

Atchison achieves this by segmenting the broad asset classes into 44 individual sectors, allowing a deeper analysis of the underlying drivers of returns and sources of risk.

This affords a detailed and granular understanding of portfolios, the ability to test and re-test the achievability of investment objectives, and understand the real level of diversification from a top-down and bottom-up perspective.

Our investment approach is:

Building market return assumptions

44 asset class returns and 72 quarterly signals are modelled, monitoring 3,750 products per month.

Setting portfolio risk limits

Risk limits are determined based on the investment objective, looking beyond volatility.

Optimising asset allocation

Stress test the asset allocation models to ensure portfolios are optimised for multiple outcomes.

Building asset class sleeves

Sleeves are constructed using best of breed managers, managing style, sector, country exposures.

Applying Atchison's risk filter

Bottom-up stress testing of portfolios using Atchison's in-house proprietary data and modelling.

Stress testing the portfolio

Stress test the portfolio, holdings and objectives against multiple economic outcomes.

Monitoring and rebalancing

Institutional grade portfolio optimisation to guide rebalancing, identify red flags.

Helping Grow Your Business

At the foundation of our business is a commitment to support financial advisers to growing and run more profitable and efficient businesses.

Large levels of the investment industries attention is naturally drawn to exciting topics such as stock selection, returns and finding the next best ideas.

We are focused on getting the basics right, and avoiding the biggest mistakes that asset managers and consultants alike continue to make.

We understand the regulatory expectations on advisers continues to grow, just as they have on industry super funds, with more pressure will come.

With the Royal Commission as a backdrop, it is more important than ever to have rigour and depth surrounding every part of your business, investments included.

Atchison is here to build and provide frameworks within a partnership with you, to reduce friction and lags within your business, to support better client communication and ultimately to grow your businesses.

Atchisons Relationship With Financial Advisers

Atchison's experience spans the financial advice, asset consulting and asset management sectors, we know the biggest pain points for advisers comes down to clients. Whether it is dealing with queries, questions or administration, this is the source of most friction.

We know the level of support for client-appropriate communications can be poor.

Our value proposition to financial advisers is driven by a deep understanding of content and removing friction from client conversations.

Our aim is firstly to keep you informed, but importantly, to keep your clients informed; while affording you control over the content.

As the client, you should never be surprised when something happens in your portfolio, nor should you expect to be justifying investment returns from your consultant.

Your content can be scaled up and down, and includes: daily market updates, monthly portfolio and asset class reviews, investment committee notes and reporting, approved product list and managed fund reviews, strategic asset allocation, tactical asset allocation, rebalances, any quarterly changes, all of which can be branded as your own.

Introducing SMAs

Separately Managed Accounts (SMAs) are one of the most popular tools used by financial advisers and for good reason.

At Atchison, we prefer SMAs which are a financial product, administered by any major platform and can be purchased off the investment menu.

They provide discretion to you, the adviser, to execute investment changes for every client all at once, and all but removes the need for costly paperwork and ROAs.

Managed accounts enable the ability to outsource investment execution, reduce administration and spend more time with your clients.

The firms adopting managed accounts are selling at higher multiples than those who don't.

If you're worried about a growing administration burden, client portfolios that are straying from your model or still using ROA's, managed accounts need to be on your radar.

A Bespoke Solution For You

Every relationship begins with getting to know one another, in which case you receive the benefit of our most valuable tools.

Rather than seeking to fit you into something off-the-shelf, we want to understand your business, the challenges you are facing, and what your clients expect from you.

We then work together to build an investment philosophy and strategic asset allocation framework, which forms a key piece of marketing for your clients.

With this we can craft an option for you, with our key service offerings as follows:
